Tumbled VC

Though subtle, the pattern created by the faint grey and cream tones that make up Miral Limestone will appear more linear when vein cut, or more floral when cross cut. The material is non-directional, however, when chopped or split. Similar to wood grain, stone can have a well defined vein direction when quarried. Miral is suitable for all climates and applications such as interior and exterior paving, pool copings, vertical wall veneer and caps, and custom carved applications.
